of a long, happy, and useful life is the careful preservation of all the faculties with which you were endowed, and the sane and healthful use of them.

The eyes are the most important of all the sense organs. When they fail, and grow dim, the world is surely dark.

Take care of them intelligently. A little care now will save trouble.

On the question of pay for maintenance of the U. Following is the statement referred to:

COUNTY ATTORNEY OF HAWAII ROASTED

HE MAKES STRANGE MOTION IN CASE OF TWO JAPS CHARGED WITH MURDER—JUDGE PARSONS HANDLES HIM WITHOUT GLOVES—WILLIAMS AS NEXT MOVE LETS THE ONE MAN IN CUSTODY GO FREE.

HILO, April 2.—One of the most remarkable scenes in a Hawaiian court of justice for a long time past was enacted in the Circuit Court of the Fourth Circuit, Judge Parsons presiding, last Friday morning, when the judge found it necessary to pronounce a stinging rebuke to County Attorney Charles Williams, the Hilo Tribune reports.

The case on trial was that of Y. C. Mitsui, charged on two indictments with the crime of murder in the first degree, Kikada Tetsuji being jointly charged with him. Fukuda Tetsuji has never been caught. The murders with which the men were charged occurred at Honokaa on December 24 last. Y. Sugioka and a woman named Hami being the victims. Jealousy over the transfer of Hami's affections is supposed to have been the motive.

W. S. Wise was retained for the defense of Mitsui, who, it is alleged, did not actually do the killing, but who directed Fukuda Tetsuji to do it and was actually present when it was done.

True bills having been found and a plea of not guilty having been entered in each case, trial was set for Friday morning. County Attorney Williams then appeared and filed a motion for continuance. The motion was based on the idea that: "The prosecution expects to prove by Fukuda Tetsuji that he, the said Fukuda Tetsuji, committed the murders as set out in the indictment heretofore filed in this court and that the said Y. C. Mitsui aided, incited, procured, conspired, hired and commanded the said Fukuda Tetsuji to commit the said murders."

Attorney Wise rose immediately on the reading of this strange motion but Judge Parsons motioned him to be seated. The court was plainly annoyed. "Mr. Williams," said the judge, "this affidavit and motion of yours is a trifling with the court. You state under oath that you expect to prove by an alleged murderer in this case that the other defendant incited him to commit a crime for which the penalty is death. It does not appear in your affidavit, or in any other affidavit, what reason you have for belief that the alleged murderer, now at large, would voluntarily give evidence against this man as accessory, which evidence would of necessity incriminate himself. It is too extraordinary for belief that any accused man would give any such evidence when he himself was under the same indictment, the penalty for which, under conviction, is death."

"Your motion for a continuance on the ground of the absence of a material witness is sheer effrontery. The motion is denied."

Counsel for the defense immediately asked that the county attorney should enter a nolle prosequi but that the prosecution refused to do at that time. "Then the case is set for trial on Monday," said Judge Parsons. "I do this with great regret, for it will put the county to much expense which might have been avoided."

The county attorney left court but later in the day filed a notice of the withdrawal of the prosecution against Mitsui. The Japanese was at once set at liberty.

The indictments against the other man will stand in the meantime so that if he is ever captured he may be placed on trial. Mitsui, having been once in jeopardy, cannot be placed on trial for the acts specified.

TRAGEDY IN PALOLO

CLANDESTINE MEETINGS OF SCHOOLGIRL WITH CHINESE—WOMAN DEAD FROM POISONING.

Thirteen-year-old Miss Ah Foong, English-speaking Chinese, played truant and met Chen Yee, lover, in Palolo, at the home of aged Mrs. Ah Kieu.

Mr. Ah Foong finds out and prosecutes lover. Mr. Ah Kieu finds out and scolds wife who sheltered shame. Mrs. Ah Kieu dies this morning, poisoned by opium.

Miss Ah Foong was supposed to attend Kaahumanu school. She lived in Moiliili. She would tell the teacher that she had to go home to tend her sick parents and she would tell her parents that she was kept at school to look for money lost by the teacher, or some other excuse, and all the time she was in Palolo, meeting this Chen Yee, a pig rancher, who treated her wrongfully.

Probably to avoid being sent to the Industrial school, Miss Ah Foong called on Chief of Detectives Taylor on Wednesday morning to ask that she be sent to the Sakakia Army Rescue Home. She complained that her father had beaten her with a shoe and she exhibited her body to show bruises inflicted thereby. She wanted protection.

The Chief thought there was something strange about the affair and himself investigated with the result that he ascertained that the little woman had been having adventures and had come from her pig-ranch Lothario that very morning.

Attorneys for the girl's father called last evening on Mrs. Ah Kieu, to ascertain all facts in regard to the habits of Chen Yee and Miss Ah Foong on occasions at her home. The woman's husband came home and wanted to know what all the talk was about, for his wife had said nothing to him of Miss Ah Foong's visits.

The police were surprised this morning to be informed of the sudden death of Mrs. Ah Kieu and investigation revealed the fact that she had been poisoned by opium. The first theory is that she was remorseful in contemplation of the shame her roof had sheltered and of the effects, the prosecution of Chen Yee, the notoriety, what her husband said to her, perhaps, and what all Chinese who knew her and what other people would think and say.

An inquest is to be held. Meanwhile Chen Yee is in custody for his relations with Miss Ah Foong.

Chen Yee may have to answer for a serious crime. Attorney Lightfoot, who represents the father of the girl, was on the Ah Kieu premises yesterday

Extra Pay On Sunday

FIVE MEN OF SCHOONER WEST MADE DEMAND OF SOMETHING NOT IN ARTICLES.

Shipping Commissioner Almy explains the trouble of the five men of the schooner A. J. West as follows:

The schooner got in last Sunday morning and anchored in the stream. Later in order to dock Capt. Yarnberg ordered the men to get up steam in the donkey engine for the purpose of getting up anchor for docking, and to put on the sail covers against the possibility of rain. The men, who belong to the union, refused unless they were paid at the rate of fifty cents per hour for the Sunday work.

Commissioner Almy states that he examined carefully the articles under which the men signed for six months, and that there is no specification regarding extra pay for Sundays, whether in port or out, and moreover they had agreed by the articles to unload cargo. He is inclined to think that the prospect of doing the hard work of unloading the lumber cargo of the schooner had something to do with the refusal of the men to work.

DOUTHITT MULCTED

By a verdict of the jury in the case of W. C. Peacock vs. A. J. Campbell, A. M. Brown, E. A. Douthitt, and Harry Lake, for $10,000 damages for false arrest, the plaintiff is awarded $50 to be recovered from E. A. Douthitt alone.

The verdict was rendered at 2:30 o'clock after the jury had returned from lunch, the case having been given to it at 12:15. Exceptions were noted by attorneys for both parties to the suit.

Inter-island steamship Claudine went aground near the railroad wharf yesterday forenoon after putting a thousand bags of sugar into the A-H. S. S. Columbia. She got a line foul of her screw and in maneuvering to disengage the tangle stuck the mud, finally getting herself off with her wifches.

for the purpose of studying the premises for use in the prosecution.

Ah Kieu, the husband of the dead woman, works up Nuuanu valley and is home only about one evening a week. Mrs. Ah Kieu after his arrival last night and after he had learned what had been going on, swallowed a quantity of opium. She died early this morning, unattended by a physician.

Atkinson Not The Boss

A. L. C. Atkinson, in talking this afternoon about the article appearing in this morning's paper, stating that he had been elected superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, stated: "I have never, and neither do I intend now to become the superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League."

"I am an attorney, and expect to continue my study and practice of law, and I do not intend to give it up for anything else."

"I am heart and soul with the local option movement, as I believe it is the proper way to handle the liquor question here in Hawaii."

"I don't believe prohibition is practical, but I do believe local option is the best practicable method at the present time."

GUNDELFINGER'S O'ER SAD STORY

CONFESSES IN COURT TO FALSIFYING HIS ACCOUNTS—SENTENCE BY JUDGE PARSONS.

HILO, April 2.—Siegfried Gundelfinger, a young German of a gentle family, was on Thursday last sentenced to serve five years at hard labor for the crime of embezzlement. He had been in the employ of the Honokaa Sugar Company as bookkeeper for some time and the specific charge, of which he was convicted and sentenced, was the embezzlement of $1996.35 on January 15, 1907.

Gundelfinger's case is a curious one, the Hilo Tribune says. He is a young man of very good education and gentlemanly behavior who was installed in a position of trust which, it seems, was too much for him.

He was arrested in Honokaa and there, in the District Court, he pleaded guilty to several charges and signed a confession, at the same time making restitution of some $1400 which he had in hand.

He was brought to Hilo and here engaged W. S. Wise and Harry Irwin as counsel. A plea of "not guilty" was entered then by Gundelfinger but later it appeared that Carl S. Smith was to be associated with the prosecution, which was being conducted by County Attorney Williams. The defense asked for a recess in which the matter might be discussed again with the defendant.

The time was granted by Judge Parsons and at 2 o'clock on Thursday the court resumed to hear a plea of "guilty" entered on the prisoner's behalf.

Deputy Attorney Sutton at once entered a nolle prosequi in the second charge on which Gundelfinger was indicted, one of having embezzled another sum of $2156.05.

It is known that there were many other charges which would have been brought had the first proceedings failed.

In asking for sentence the Deputy Attorney General was decidedly sympathetic though his duty led him to point out the enormity of the offense, committed as it was by a man of education and understanding. He did not press for the extreme penalty and asked the judge to consider the situation one in which the influence on others could be borne in mind.

Harry Irwin, of counsel for the defense, made a particularly telling address, futile though it proved. He stated how in many months a young man had been left in charge of much money, his accounts unchecked and unaudited and drew attention to the fact that Gundelfinger had made every effort to restore the money which had been stolen. The prisoner had not attempted to excuse his crime, said Irwin, but he was asking for the full consideration of the court.

When Judge Parsons commanded Gundelfinger to rise to receive sentence the prisoner was asked the usual question as to whether he had anything to say.

Very unfortunately for himself, he had. He described with distinctness the exact way in which during a series of months he had stolen money which he had spent in absolutely idiotic ways. "This crime seems to me to have been a very despicable one," said the judge. "The defendant, by his own, unaided, admission tells the court that he was aware of the fact that he was falsifying the accounts he was entrusted to keep correctly. He has not asserted, nor has it been shown, that he or any of those near and dear to him, his friends or relatives, were in want for even any necessary of life. He is a young man of—I take it—superior intelligence and as such his punishment must be commensurate. Siegfried Gundelfinger, the sentence of this court is that you be imprisoned at hard labor for the period of five years."

Gundelfinger awayed for a few seconds as he heard his sentence and then getting command of himself he bowed politely to the judge. He was taken away by Sheriff Keolanui and was sent to commence his term by the steamer Mauna Kea on Friday.

PLAY FOR TONIGHT

"In Town," at the Orpheum last night, kept the crowded house laughing and clapping throughout the whole piece, and certainly gave everyone a very good time.

"Tonight, the musical comedy, "The Belle of New York," will be staged with some of the best artists in the company in the leading roles. This play made quite a hit last week, and tickets are going fast.

The management wishes to announce that absolutely no tickets will be held for the last two performances unless a positive promise is given that they will be called for before six o'clock on the evening of the performance. They will not be held later than that time.

This step became necessary through the habit of a number of people of ordering seats reserved for them when they had no definite intention of going. Seats thus held were often uncalled for, and so were thrown back upon the management at the very last minute. After eight o'clock, they were sold to the first comers, who thus secured some of the best seats while those who had tried previously were unable to get them.

As this is unfair to the management, as well as to the public, it was decided to try to put a stop to it.

HOUSE WARMING AT OLD MISSION

A pleasant time is promised for this afternoon at the Old Mission Home on King street in the form of a house warming. There will be a historical play representing the old mission times presented by young ladies, descendants of the missionaries, also some of the girls from Kanehahana School who will represent the native chieftesses and people.

An opportunity will be given to members of mission societies and other friends to go through the building, which, as well known is the first frame house ever erected in Honolulu. The gathering will be at 3:30 o'clock.
